$202,513 from the endowment funds were reinvested into the library and foundation in 2018.
2018 was an outstanding year for Madison Public Library Foundation. Many individuals, businesses, foundations and organizations deepened their commitment to helping our libraries respond to community needs through major contributions to our funding priorities. We’re thankful to all who believe in the power of libraries and support our approach to solving community problems through library efforts.

LEAD GIFTS

Two longtime library supporters who passed away in 2018 left gifts to the foundation totaling $1,224,798.

UW Law School Professor and attorney Cheryl Rosen Weston left $1.01 million to the foundation for the Wisconsin Book Festival and two Lakeview Library efforts.

An avid reader and social justice advocate, Weston enjoyed attending Book Festival events, and wanted to support the festival’s mission of offering free, accessible author events to the public. Her remaining gifts will be used at her favorite branch, Lakeview, where the popular fiction and nonfiction collections display will be revamped, and a new teen librarian hired. Robin Amado, who begins in late April, will work with north side teens and neighborhood youth community partners, as well as direct Saturday night summer programming that’s funded with a Safe and Thriving Communities grant.

Longtime Madison Public Library librarian Barbara Williams, who served as a dedicated Central Library volunteer after her retirement in 2005, left a $214,798 unrestricted gift to the foundation’s endowment. Carol Froistad, a retired librarian who worked closely with Williams, said Williams enjoyed supporting various literacy efforts and progressive causes across Madison. “She very much wanted to make sure her money went to causes she believed in,” Froistad said. “She loved and believed in libraries, and particularly in literacy.”

In addition to her own gift, Williams’ obituary requested that in lieu of flowers, memorials be made to library collections, which resulted in even more gifts from her friends and family.

“I am eternally grateful that my mother passed her deep love of reading down to me. She knew that it’s good for the mind, body, and soul. She knew how much there is to be learned by reading, and how great it is to ‘go’ somewhere else in your mind. She also felt very strongly that access to reading should be available to absolutely everyone.”

— Samantha Weston, Cheryl’s daughter
MAKING JUSTICE

The Bubbler at Madison Public Library designs and leads programming for Making Justice, an arts-based learning model for at-risk and court-involved teens that includes weekly workshops and an artist-in-residence opportunity in the juvenile detention center and county’s shelter home. The program addresses the wide black-white educational achievement gap and high per-capita black juvenile arrest and incarceration rate in Madison.

Offered in collaboration with artists, educators and activists, Making Justice encourages engagement and self-expression via graphic and 3-D art, photography, spoken word, performance, video and life skills projects. While participants focus on creating a final product, workshop leaders strive to cultivate relationships with the teens, and help them make community connections.

PARTICIPANT FEEDBACK

“People connect to learning and literacy in different ways throughout the course of their lives, and Making Justice looks to target disengaged and at-risk teenagers by introducing them to teaching artists and hands-on projects that are relevant to their everyday lives.”
— Teen Services Librarian Jesse Vieau, who coordinates Making Justice programming

Participant Feedback

“If you don’t like art, you going to like it after this. If you like art, you going to like it more.”

“The Bubbler group is dope as hell. My T-shirts are fresh!”

“I loved it. I learned different ways to express how you feel and to know who you are.”

“I loved hearing everyone’s story. Although I’m not good at this I still enjoyed it. It made me want to try to do it again.”

DREAM BUS

Madison Public Library and Dane County Library Service are collaborating to bring a new, fully staffed and fully stocked readmobile called the Dream Bus to five under-served neighborhoods weekly beginning in spring 2019. The mobile library will operate solely on private support for four years, with the hope of Dane County and the City of Madison funding it thereafter.

The Dream Bus will bring collections, exterior programming space and free Wi-Fi into areas in which residents, especially kids, face barriers to accessing the libraries and its resources. Librarians will circulate books, provide library cards, fulfill holds and host early childhood activities. The Dream Bus will visit five locations weekly:

- Allied Drive
- Leopold Elementary School
- Park Edge/ Park Ridge (near Elver Park)
- Reindahl Park
- Vera Court/ Kennedy Heights

GOODMAN SOUTH MADISON REMODELING

More than 50 local kids and teens worked with hip-hop architect Michael Ford, Engberg Anderson Architects and staff at Goodman South Madison Library to redesign several of the library’s areas and select furnishings. The project includes new carpeting and repainting throughout the entire facility; a new entryway with a one-stop service desk; digital signage; new children’s space furniture; and a larger teen area, including a recording station, an iPad bar, a “mediascape” gaming and movie station, comfortable mobile seating and a reimagined group meeting space. The remodeling will conclude in summer 2019.

MEADOWRIDGE & LAKEVIEW KITCHEN PROGRAMS

From after-school snack programs and cooking classes to community suppers, food programming is bustling at Meadowridge and Lakeview libraries. Young residents often arrive at the libraries hungry after school, which prompted the foundation to seek donors for creative, need-based snack and food literacy programs. The libraries host local chefs, including Lily Kilfoyl, who lead classes for kids, teens and patrons of all ages. Other classes unite library patrons through ethnic foods and cultural experiences.

PINNEY CAPITAL CAMPAIGN

Library, foundation and city leaders broke ground on the new Pinney Library at a special ceremony in early April. The new facility, located in the mixed-use Royster Corners development on Cottage Grove Road, will feature a large program room, an outdoor program space, updated technology, dedicated teen and children’s spaces, and a drive-through book drop. It will open in spring 2020. So far, the foundation has raised $1,363,658 for the new library, with $235,000 remaining. All gifts beyond the $1.6 million goal will go to the Pinney endowment.
Black Men Run, Brown Boys Read – Meadowridge Pilot
Aims to reduce health disparities and improve literacy in Madison while also creating a safe space for black males ages 8-16.

High-Loss Materials Replacement
The library loses a significant amount of its collection due to wear and tear, and patrons’ mishandling or loss of items. Dollars covered the purchase of 625 adult nonfiction books, 800 feature DVDs and more.

High-Use and New Media Collection Improvements
AV equipment upgrades, including expanded collections of Vox audio-enabled picture books and current music formats to align with trends.

Increasing Accessibility at the Library
Madison residents, especially teens, are gaining better access to computers, the internet and additional technology, like the rolling smart screens used for meetings and programs.

Library Director’s Discretionary Fund
Covers the costs of projects that present themselves throughout the year.

Meet Your Madison Public Library
Strives to reach potential new library users, discover what might appeal to them, identify barriers to library use, and determine how the library can better connect library programs and resources to the communities that will use them.

Pathway to Cooperative Entrepreneurship
Targets low-income Madison residents to support job creation through cooperative small-business ownership.

Professional Development for New and Hourly Staff
Conferences, training and other career growth events for new and hourly employees on topics in their specialty.

Staff Day
Annual inservice day for library staff to share stories and learn more about people in the community to better serve them.

Systemwide Technology Improvements
Supports the purchase of a new online survey system that helps librarians better serve patrons.

Who Matters? Volume Two
An encore edition of a powerful intergenerational family photography project.

Taking the Wonders of Learning Home
Interactive mobile children’s exhibit emphasizing the importance of play in learning and development. Sites include Preschool of the Arts, Madison Public Library and Overture Center for the Arts.
“Mini-grants” provide a source of funding for miscellaneous projects and needs that arise throughout the year. The foundation’s 2018 mini-grants totaled $17,000. They included:

Whoopensocker!
The Bubbler at Madison Public Library hosted four Whoopensocker! theater education workshops for elementary school-age students at Pinney, Sequoya, Hawthorne and Meadowridge libraries last summer.

Developed by Dr. Erica Halverson from the UW-Madison School of Education, Whoopensocker! builds creativity, expression, writing and collaboration through performing and creative arts exercises. Kids created and acted out short stories and skits, which Whoopensocker! teaching artists wove into cabaret-style shows — complete with costumes, props and musical accompaniment — at Central and Sequoya libraries. Part of the grant paid for the transportation of kids from Goodman Community Center and the Salvation Army to watch the shows.

Munch + Make Middle School Book Club
The Bubbler at Madison Public Library held monthly Munch + Make book clubs at O’Keeffe and Whitehorse middle schools last spring, with each session featuring a maker project and book talks. Activities included button making, screenprinting Libraries are for Everyone shirts, comic creation and journaling. The clubs celebrated the end of the school year with parties at Pinney Library.

If you made a contribution last year and didn’t specify how you wanted it to be used, your gift went to our annual fund. This fund allows us to grant money to the library for a wide variety of needs, including collections, technology, programs, professional development and other efforts.
"I would say if it weren’t for libraries, I wouldn’t be a writer. I think I probably learned more going to the public library on my own — reading what I wanted to read and following my own interests — than I did in school. I’m grateful to libraries ... I love libraries. Truly, one of the happiest days of my life was the day that I realized that I had a Dewey Decimal number."

The Wisconsin Book Festival’s 16th year brought 108 events to 14,271 people. The fall four-day celebration took place October 11–14 at Central Library and other downtown venues. The weekend drew nearly 5,500 people to 67 events involving 85 authors, with an expanded effort to include a broad range in age, gender, sexuality and race. C-SPAN2 BookTV provided live coverage and a call-in segment on Saturday, October 13, allowing the festival to reach a national audience.

The festival’s growing reputation for high-caliber events helped it land the world’s best-selling author, James Patterson, to give a talk at Overture Center for the Arts in advance of the festival celebration. He spoke about his latest Max Einstein youth science adventure novel and thriller, Ambush. Other notable festival authors included Jamel Brinkley, Tommy Orange, Jan Brett, Megan McDonald, Rebecca Traister and Carol Anderson.

The cover illustration and illustrated typographic headlines throughout the report were created by Taylor Wright Rushing, an Artist-in-Residence in the Bubbler at Madison Public Library. A Tacoma, Wash. native, he received his B.A. at Evergreen State College in Olympia, Wash. Taylor then spent time as a professional glassblower in the South Puget Sound, a carpenter on the southern coast of the United Kingdom, and an old-time string band member in Austin, Texas. He will soon receive his MFA from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Taylor’s residency focuses on the absolute accessibility of culture and knowledge from the lens of self-taught makers, hobo whittlers, punk rock zinesters, shamans and librarians. He emphasizes the use of humble materials, cartoons and down-home crafts.
